

Estuary Party

It's a party, and all the plants and animals are invited. Like any party, this one is a chance to get to know the members of an estuary community a little better.

Copy the pages in the attached PDF file. Each student receives one complete set as an overnight reading assignment. The next day students get one animal card pinned on their back without knowing what's on the card. They each must find out "who" they are. Students can mingle freely, asking only yes and no questions to gather information about the plant or animal on their back.
